EXAMINING SOLDIERS

THE SURGEON BEGINS HIS PART OF THE WORK OF MUSTER-OUT.

IT PROCEEDS YERY SLOWLY.

Surgeon-The Men Will Be Paid When Mustered Out-The Sick-Religious Services.

The work preliminary to the musterout of the Third Virginia is all under way now, the physical examination of the men having been begun yesterday.

This work will require a great deal of time if it all has to be done by one surgeon, as Assistant Surgeon Chamberlain worked hard yesterday and only succeeded in getting through with about fifty men. He began on Captain Willard's company and will finish with it to-day.

Major Price wired Surgeon-General Sternberg last night to have another surgeon sent here to assist Surgeon Chamberlain. He thinks it highly desirable that Surgeon Chamberlain be given assistance, as the government has to pay the men for the time they are kept waiting here to be examined, and maintain them as well. In addition to this the men are very desirous of being sent home to their families and business. The idleness of their lives here is not pleasant to government.

The quartermaster's stores and ordnance are also being checked up, and will soon be ready to turn over to the government.

The men will not be paid off until mustered out. They have been paid for the month of August, but September pay and pay for what will probably be the whole of October, will be due them when mustered out.

Officers, as well as men, are tired by the delay, and it seems that some arrangement will be made to expedite matters. Captain Willard is endeavoring to arrange to pay his men out of his own pocket and let them go home as soon as the physical examination of the men is completed, and they have been given discharges by Major Price. THE SICK SOLDIERS.

Of the fifty-odd soldiers of the Second Regiment sent to the Old Dominion Hos-pital upon the arrival of the regiment pital upon the arrival of the regiment here on the 20th of September, only four-teen are in the institution at pres-ent. All the rest have been sent away recovered, or about so, with the exception of Private Albert J. Rouse, of Company I, who died. There are seven members of the Third Regiment in the hospital now, but none of them are very seriously ill. Officers and men of both regiments speak in the highest terms of the treatment the men received and are receiving, and one of them said yesterday that had he the power he would give Miss S. H. Canniss, the superintendent, the commission and pay of a colonel.

Chaplain Fergusson, of the Third, and Rev. J. Calvin Stewart, of the Church of the Covenant, have the matter in charge and they have invited the ministers of Richmond to meet them at the Young Men's Christian Association at the Young Men's Christian Association this afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the matter will be discussed.

The meetings will begin to-night, when Dr. J. William Jones will speak to the men, and some well known singer will be heard. Dr. Hoge has signified his willingness to talk to the men one night, and it is thought that all of the preachers in the city will be glad of the opportunity made to get Polk Miller to contribute the pleasure of the meetings by a recital.

Thomas W. Lacy was sentenced by Judge Waddill yesterday morning to serve two years in the penitentiary with hard labor.

All the motions made to set the verdict aside were overruled, and, of course, there can be no appeal from the judgment. Lacy will be sent to the prison at Raleigh, N. C., next Monday, and with good behavior he may earn his freedom in in the cause of the prisoner yesterday morning when the case was called at 10 c'clock in the United States Fircult Court. Mr. Allan spoke to his motion to arrest judgment, and Mr. Page, of Manchester, argued that the verdict was contrary to the law and evidence.

MADE THEIR LAST APPEAL There was some further hard pleading

Judge Waddill overruled both motions. The latter he had disposed of on Wednes-day, and as to the former he said that even if the fourth count would not stand, the other three counts on which the pri-soner was found guilty were conclusive. SENTENCE IS PASSED.

The counsel here gave up the fight, and The counsel here gave up the fight, and Judge Waddill proceeded to pass sentence. He waived the formality of calling on the prisoner to come and stand in front of the bench, but allowed him to retain his seat. The Judge spoke with much feeling. He said if it was a matter of heart there would be no conviction in his court, but duty had to be done, even when it conflicted with sympathy. He could not but duty had to be done, even when it conflicted with sympathy. He could not overlook the fact that the jurors had expressed a wish that the sentence be made as light as possible, and their wish had much weight with him. It would be better, the Judge thought, if the jurors in Federal courts were allowed to fix the punishment, as is done in State courts. The punishment provided for the offence of which Lacy was found guilty was from one to five years, and the Judge said he would sentence him to two years' confinement at hard labor in the penitenconfinement at hard labor in the penitentiary at Raleigh.

Lacy was outwardly calm during the Judge's remarks, but when he was taken to the Marshal's office after he had been sentenced, he broke down completely, and wept for some time.
